R.A. No.43/2012

Heard learned counsel for the review petitioner. In our view, no ground is made out for reviewing the judgment as in substance the review only seeks re-appreciation of the material as according to the review petitioner, this Tribunal did not correctly appreciate the documents, its purport, authenticity, admissibility and reliability.

Suffice it to say that the remedy available to the review petitioner did lie somewhere else then review petition, if the review petitioner at all had any grievance. The review petition is, therefore, dismissed.

M.A. No.286/2012

Learned counsel for the respondents has paid the cost today and submits that now since the review petition has been dismissed today, the respondents will comply the order most expeditiously. In the interest of justice, one last opportunity is granted subject to payment of another cost of Rs.15,000/-. Matter to come up on 14.01.2013.
